TWIN SINS SURPASS ALL OTHERS IN HARM

Unbelief and Indifference Most Dangerous, Rev. Markley Tells Congregation

"The sins of unbelief and indifference are the twin sins that are doing more harm than any other sins among so-called Christian people." Rev. Franklin G. Markley declared in an evangelistic series last night at the Epworth U. E. church. His subject was "Where Judgment Will Pegin."

Judgment begins at the house of God—which is the house of prayer as Jesus indicated—and not merely a house of preaching, he said. The House of God is a place of pardon and salvation and if it fails of this what is left?

Since we are told that judgment will begin with the church what can many people do to excuse themselves when they put almost everything in their living first but Christ?

After many of you have lived for Satan after the heat of the flesh, and getting drunk, swearing, not paying your bills, getting another and refusing to give one another what are you going to do when you are called into judgment?

There is no way to escape the judgment of God and the time to prepare for it is today.

Tonight Rev. Markley will preach on "The Sin of Indifference."

RASKOB DENOUNCES NEW DEAL TACTICS

Dispute Over Income Tax Shows Breadth of Liberal, Conservative Split

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON Jan 13 John J. Raskob's accusation that high administration officials are using income tax legislation as a political weapon emphasized today the bitterness between the new deal and certain conservatives both Democrat and Republican.

Tyranny and cheap politics was the answer the former Democratic national chairman hurried last night at a government brief charging that he and Peter D. DuPont of Delaware agreed to create fictitious losses through secretly sales to one another in 1935.

Raskob intimated the brief filed last Friday with the board of tax appeals was timed to appear before the American Liberty League dinner Jan 25 at which Alfred E. Smith will speak. Both Raskob and DuPont are financial backers of the league which has been pushing new deal policies.

Declaring that the security transactions in question established losses wholly within the law Raskob said:

One could secure no better illustration of the tyranny which a government bureau can inflict on a citizen than that presented in the United States treasury department attack on Mr. Fazio & DuPont in which my name is mentioned and in which we are both charged with making pretended sales of securities to one another.

$1,000,000 A MONTH SPENT ON 14 DAMS

Army Engineers Suggest Added Expenditures on Ports and Ohio River

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON Jan 13 Army engineers in an annual report estimated today that $1,000,000 month was being spent on Ohio's great Muskingum valley conservation district that $1,368,000 could probably be expended on the states Lake Erie harbors and reconstruct Ohio river improvements to cost $8,211,000.

Mr. Gen. E. M. Markham chief of engineers declared the Muskingum valley project would be completed by June 30 1938. He said $ 2,065,714 remained of a $2,000,000 public works limitation allotment for the flood control and water conservation project in eastern Ohio.

All 14 dams of the 16-county district are under construction and 10,000 acres of land have been bought or optioned.

The district is to furnish $12,000,000 for land titles, highway relocation and other expenses aside from bonded action. The engineers report final full cooperation obtained from the district.

Also recommended was a $122,900 expenditure for locks and dams on the Muskingum river in 1938 and $93,000 in 1937. The locks were described as in fair condition in view of their age—nearly 100 years.

LIBERTY LEAGUE SAYS ROOSEVELT DECEIVES

Denounces "Riot of Extravagance" Disclosed in President's Budget Message.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—Assailing President Roosevelt's interpretations of the fiscal situation as "misleading and deceitful," the American Liberty league called upon congress today to investigate "the entire government structure."

The executive budget message, the league said, "discloses a program marked by a riot of extravagance on every hand." The investigation was recommended "with view to attainment of the objectives pledged in the Democratic platform of 1932 and emphasized by Mr. Roosevelt in his campaign speeches."

The league said if any corporation should offer a statement under the securities and exchange act "as deceptive and confusing as the President's budget message, it would be prosecuted under the penal section of the statute."

The league said, the President has failed to provide a balanced budget for 1937 and "his policy offers scant hope for 1938." It added, the budget could be balanced and suggested:

Abandonment of work relief, with temporary substitution of direct relief and subsequent loans to states unable to assume proper responsibilities.

Congressional investigation with congress taking advantage of the results and of studies previously made of the objectives pledged by the Democrats in the 1932 campaign.

The league said in numerous respects the President's message and statistical data were "designed to gloss over or conceal the true picture of budget status which is unprecedented and highly disturbing."

BOY ADMITS KILLING HIS STEPMOTHER

By The Associated Press

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 13—Police questioned two girls and checked fingerprints on a bloody hammer today after a youth of 17 had been found near death from a crushed skull.

Joseph Koran Jr., high school senior, regained consciousness long enough to whisper the first name of a girl who he said hit him with the hammer.

Detective Sergeant James Hogan picked up two young women bearing that same first name. Both said they had not seen the youth for some time.

Revenge by a rival suitor and an attempted "hush" murder by bootleggers were among the theories being checked by detectives.

Koran's parents said he had left the house intending to call upon a girl friend. Hours later the father found the youth in the rear seat of the family automobile in the garage.

wide margin of safety in their operation.
Last year they carried considerably more than half a billion passengers without loss of a single life.There was a time when the country believed railroad fatalities were unavoidable.
In this connection it is interesting to note what has been accomplished in the way of reducing the number of deaths at grade crossings, where engineers must worry about motorists.A decade ago, in 1925, 2,200 persons were killed and 8,000 injured in grade crossing accidents. In 1928 and 1929, the totals reached their highest levels, with 2,665 deaths and 8,600 injuries in 1928 and 2,485 deaths and 6,800 injuries in 1929. Then something happened.The totals were cut down gradually until in 1934 there were only 1,054 fatalities and 4,300 injuries. Decreases in railroad and automobile traffic account for part of the decrease, but better grade crossing protection accounts for the rest. The safety margin can be widened, even at this perilous point.The railroads' record of no fatalities among passengers in 1935 should be compared with the death toll of 36,000 taken by automobiles. Those who think nothing can be done to increase the margin of safety in automobile traffic cannot ignore the fact that millions of Americans traveled with perfect safety in trains last year.
Safety doesn't happen. It is created by painstaking labor and ceaseless caution.Fringe.Perhaps it's just as well to make the assumption that all citizens know what is going on as it would be to inquire more closely into their knowledge of current history. Certainly there's nothing to be gained by too close inquiry, except possibly a few chuckles and conviction that around the central part of society there lies a fringe of humanity which lives and dies without benefit of perception.Presumably, most Americans know that the AAA they have been reading about and hearing about for the last few years signifies the agricultural adjustment administration, founded on the agricultural adjustment act. Most Americans, furthermore, understand that AAA, used in connection with the auto letters used in connection with the American Automobile Association.Nevertheless, it is reported as a fact that American Automobile Association secretaries have been reassuring excited members that the supreme court of the United States has not ruled their organization unconstitutional. This is not a reflection on any group, but a comment on a type of person. Probably if the facts were known other citizens are disturbed about the dissolution of the Association of Advertising Agencies, the American Asiatic Association, the American Arbitration Association and the Astrologians Association of America. For their comfort, all the capital A associations are safe, all except the agricultural adjustment administration.The Key To The City.In historic Philadelphia delegates to the Democratic national convention will gather to approve Franklin D. Roosevelt as the party's candidate. The convention probably will be a formality. No one expects it to last longer than the shortest time possible.Yet, Philadelphia, which believes it lost the Republican convention through trickery, figuratively bid off its head for the honor of being host to the Democratic delegates.It gave the Democratic committee $200,000 as a basic inducement. It offered hotel accommodations at reduced, instead of raised, prices. It tickled committee men with offers of free concessions. It tempted them with air-conditioning, an essay-writing contest with $1,500 in prizes, assurances of a suspension of parliment while the convention is in progress and a promise not to ask for free tickets.All these things from a city which is supposed to be packed to its limits with Republicans—it seems incredible. Not only has the Democratic party been given the key to the city, but the password, the combination to the treasury vaults and free rooms and lodgings. Not since the Spaniards entered Mexico has such generosity been practiced. There must be something to all that business about brotherly love afterall. If it isn't love, then every other city which has tried to buy a political convention has taken a mean advantage of its guests.Only Eight Digits.With the exception of those directly responsible for development and administration of a relief program in Ohio, the public finds it difficult to become interested in the states foremost current problem.
The cause of this significant public apathy probably lies in the fact that popular attention has been turned away from Columbus to Washington by the greater excitement and magnitude of events in the national capital.Washington talks in terms of hundreds of millions and of billions while Columbus talks in terms of mere millions. Steadily for the last few years the importance of centralization of responsibility and power in the national capital has been deepened by recurrent reports of vast plans and huge appropriations. In contrast, the state's problems seem small and insignificant.
Consequently, Ohioans are inclined to neglect them.Passage by the state house of representatives of a $10,000,000 relief bill Thursday and the prospect that the house and senate will agree on that amount as Ohio's permanent relief appropriation for 1936 mark the first definite move to accept the responsibility for direct relief which the federal government has handed back to the states. It is the hope of most persons that this process of making direct relief a local problem again will be successful.
Yet, the process is being undertaken with a real handicap of wrongly placed interest upon it. Until populations of the states learn to concentrate on their local problems, permitting Washington to get along without a part of their attention, there will be needless confusion and misunderstanding.
Ohio, for instance, must learn that an appropriation of eight digits is as important in state financing as an appropriation of 10 digits in federal financing and that a state relief program is more vital to its immediate welfare than the federal government's various experiments with relief.It Keeps On Growing.The most significant fact disclosed in the Literary Digest poll on policies of the Roosevelt administration is the steady growth of opposition as the poll approaches completion. It might be expected that the ratio disclosed in early returns would be held, but instead it has shifted away from favor for the administration's policies with each tabulation of ballots. While 1,688,462 ballots registered, the ratio stands at 61.6 per cent opposed to 38.11 in favor of President Roosevelt's policies.This is an indication of a trend away from the administration, but it cannot be called proof of antagonism for the President. Obviously, no administration ever will command support for all its policies.
A ratio of double as high as 60 per cent is not, in the last analysis, alarmingly high.
Only the fact that it is continuing to increase can be called alarming. What it may mean to the political fortunes of Mr.
Roosevelt and his supporters in the government cannot be predicted with any certainty until the nature of the alternate program which the Republican party must offer is known.Age of Litigation.No one remembers how many senior hostiles of the pre-depression days used to dream of springing from university classrooms into brokers' offices. Suffice it to say, great numbers of them successfully bridged the gap, many to their later sorrow.
Brokerage business doesn't have much appeal in these later days. Not many members of the present senior class at Yale, for instance, see any future in bond-selling —nor in teaching, preaching, banking, writing and soldiering.But bond-selling has been replaced by a new attraction—new, yet old. Out of 600 students who will graduate next June, 121 will become lawyers. Last year, in a class of comparable size, approximately 300 potential lawyers made their ambition known to the machinery of reform came from law schools to Washington at one bound?There is no mystery about it. The age of litigation is in full swing. It is next to impossible to progress safely along life's highway without the benefit of counsel.
In government a man is worse than useless unless he can weave a web of legal phrasology around the meaning of a bill.
Naturally, with demand strong, supply is adjusting itself. Apparently, those who think there are too many lawyers already are wrong; one hates to think the senior hostile who is striding up to the bar in droves, herds and flocks could be overestimating the possibilities of fame, fortune and fun.There is no mystery about it. The age

To Minority Voice*House Votes Bonus Despite Biggest Deficit in History and Senate Likely To Do Likewise.By DAVID LAWRENCE Copyright, 1936, by The Marion StarWASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The incredible thing happens so often nowadays in Washington that one might well say that the abnormal use of political power has become chronic and the normal functioning of government rare and almost occasional.For notwithstanding the biggest public debt in the history of the United States, with four consecutive years of budgets unbalanced and a deficit that will exceed $12,000,000,000 for the four consecutive budgets of President Roosevelt's regime, the house of representatives has just voted to pay out a sum estimated from $1,000,- 000,000 to $2,000,000,000 in payment of the soldiers' bonus.Time was when the vote on this issue would be close, and when a sufficient number to override a veto was not obtainable.
Yet now, with the orgy of spending that has overtaken the national government, more than two-thirds of the house has voted for immediate payment of the bonus and the chances are the senate will do likewise.It may well be asked what is the reasoning which causes members of congress to spend so far beyond the means of the national pocketbook. Certainly, it will be said, the congressmen know the figures as well as anybody else outside of the government, and certainly, moreover, the dangers of imprudent fiscal policy are also a matter of common knowledge. Why, then, does congress do it?The answer is that, in every congressional district, there is a group of voters, in this case veterans' organizations, who hold the balance of power. By shifting their votes from one candidate to the other, either in the primaries or the fall elections, defeat can be assured for one and victory for the other. Members of congress who are voting against their own convictions as to what ought to be done on the bonus issue are much more interested in their own reelection than in federal finance or the risks of inflation which are being incurred by the piling up of public debt.The veterans' organizations have punished members of congress before who voted against the bonus. They have threatened to do the same thing at the polls again. Members of congress know it. They, therefore, are bowing to the will of an organized minority.Nor are the veterans' groups alone in the organized minority class. There are other groups that hold the power of life and death over the reelection of members of the house and senate. It has been maintained that not later than 10 per cent of all the voters in a national election really are members of these various minority group organizations, but as arranged are they in congressional districts as to be able to shift the result in a majority of these districts. This is because the unorganized majoralities are split between two regular parties and because the straight ticket voters always stick to their respective parties, irrespective of what happens. Thus, if 15,000 Republicans and 45,000 Democrats of the straight-ticket, life-long voter type, cast their ballots as usual in an election in which 100,000 votes are cast, a shift of 8,000 votes from minority group organizations would elect the Democrat or the Republican, as the minority group might decide.Devaluation? The President did not appear to know about that. He would have to see. Mumbling half aloud, he read through the order.
No, the order did not make clear whether he had continued his devaluation authority or not. News writers would have to check up with the treasury on that.

press for the bonus in the first year of the Roosevelt administration, when economy was the watchword, but since then, as they have seen billions spent on boondoggling and experimentation of various kinds, they have insisted on immediate payment of the bonus. Unquestionably, many members of congress have felt that way about it, too.What is puzzling, however, to many people outside the political arena is that the President, who is the acknowledged leader of his party and who otherwise exerts a dominant influence on the Jordy in both houses, is apparently powerless to prevent the passage of a bonus bill.Mr. Roosevelt has fought intensely for the "death sentence" on the utility building company bill and he has appealed to public opinion to support him, but in the weeks preceding the recent opening of congress, not a word was said by him to the American people as to why the bonus should not be paid at this time.Thus, while Mr. Roosevelt was turning his green dimmers on the devaluation rumors, some of his Democratic congressmen were publicly saying red stop-lights here mean go right and left. Some of the green go-signals mean stop (one at the

MARION IRISH FIVE
CHALK UP FOURTH
VICTORY OF SEASON

Reid High Scorer for Kellymen with Seven Field Goals and Three Free Throws

St. Mary Preble High has basketball team over 3rd to 19-19 victory over Fostoria St. Wendelin in a game played yesterday afternoon on the Fostoria court.

Heavy scoring in the early quarters gave the Irish time lead that St. Wendelin was unable to overcome. The St. Mary players turned back the final attack, attack and won the record game their season from St. Wendelin. Coach Robert Kelly's team had previously beaten yesterday's opponents 11 to 23 in a home win.

The victory gave St. Mary a record of four wins six in seven games this season. In addition to the win yesterday the team has defeated Edison High, Upper Sandusky and St. Wendelin and lost in three games in foreign courts to Springfield, Central Columbus, Holy Family and Delaware St. Mary.

St. Mary held a first quarter advantage of 8 to 1 over St. Wendelin and led 12 to 3 at the half. Going into the final quarter the Marion team had a 10 to 8 lead advantage. St. Wendelin's heavy scoring in the final period cut the winning lead to seven points.

Held accurate shooting, St. Mary forward was high scorer of the game with seven goals and three free throws to his credit. Schuler and Hoblitzel each registered two shots from the field and Myers collected the remaining point from the foul line. St. Wendelin's stellar center, J. Intersectional Play To Start Earlier and Program To Be Sped

NY YORK Jan. 13—The American and National baseball leagues with carefully considered disregard for the traditional way of doing things have decided to fit their 1936 schedules to their taste.

The program agreed on at a conference between Lord J. Beck, president of the American League, and Harvey Hirsch, secretary treasurer and William Harbridge of Chicago American League president calls for shorter and more frequently spaced games. Interleague play starting two weeks after the opening and a general speeding up of the program.

Thus the probable pennant contenders will be able to come to grips within the first month of the campaign start April 14. The fourth interleague all star game was awarded to Boston to be played July 7 at Braves Field. The closing date of the 134 game schedule is Sept. 27.

The line up for the season indicates that the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox in the east and the world champion Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians in the west probably will be the American League pennant contenders while the New York Giants, Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals again will be the principal National League title candidates.

Under the old system there would be comparatively few meetings between the rivals until the season was well under way.

The openings will follow the old order for the most part but the first shift of scenes will come earlier than before April 17 while interleague play is scheduled to begin April 28. Each club will make four interleague trips instead of three as before and play fewer games each time. The games per series will be on a 3-3-2 basis instead of the old 4-4-3.

The various opening dates were scheduled as follows:

HOPPE, AT 48, WINS NEW BILLIARD TITLE

Achieves Lifelong Ambition by Defeating Cochran in Title Match in Chicago

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Jan. 13—Willie Hoppe, the big wonder and the grand old man of billiards at the same time seems to be getting better as he grows older.

At the age of 48 Hoppe today had achieved the ambition of his life—winning the world's three cushion billiard championship, the only title that ever eluded him from Walker Cochran in a challenge match. He is the first billiard player to hold three titles at the same time. The three cushion crown is the 18th billiard championship and the one cushion or cushion carom title.
